

Talk Consent.

Education to End Sexual Violence.

Peer on Peer Sexual Violence is a significant issue.

Ofsted, June 2021

79% of girls in school reported that sexual assault happens “a lot” or “sometimes” amongst children their age.

It can be difficult for schools to address it.

It is difficult for teachers to talk to students about sex & consent.

Teachers specialize in different subjects.

Training for these lessons can be expensive and time consuming.

Talk Consent.
Education to End Sexual Violence.

As well as workshops for Parents & Teachers

Parent Talks Online or in-person

The session aims to give parents a better understanding of what was taught to their children as well as give them the confidence to continue the conversation at home.

We will cover:

- The issue of sexual violence - how common it is amongst young people and how serious the impact is.
- What parents can do to continue the conversation with their children.
- What to talk about, when to talk about it & how.
- What if something happens to your child - what they might go through and what you can do to help.

Consent Workshops

Years 5 – 6th Form

1 Hour Long. Maximum group size is roughly 40 students.

In depth and discussion/activity led workshops going into consent and the students' issues.

Content is adapted to each age group but generally covers:

- The meaning of consent, and enthusiastic consent.
- How to ensure consent is present and how to assert boundaries.
- Older groups go into the issues of sexual violence in society.
- Younger group sessions focus on boundaries and consent rather than sexual activity.

Comfortable and safe environment to be in

~ Year 9, Paddington Academy

Great Speaker – really interactive!!

~ Year 12, Paddington Academy

Very informative and engaging.

~ Year 10, JCOSS

I enjoyed the open discussions and examples
they were really useful too!

~ Year 13, American School in London

Very detailed and relatable to our generation

~ Year 12, Cheam High School

And Teachers

Superb delivery and lots of detail covered. The session was excellent in every way – the facilitator added really relevant and thought-provoking detail!

~ PSHE teacher, JCOSS

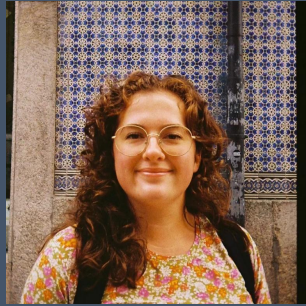

Talk Consent were amazing. They were very flexible in adapting their delivery to our different groups, so our students were able to take more from the sessions.
